The Arkansaw Traveller.

We publish the following, because the time has come when it should be read over. It has made you laugh before, and it will do it again:

In the early settlement of Arkansas, a traveller, after riding some eight or ten miles without meeting a human being or seeing a human habitation, came at last, by a sudden turn of the wood-road, to a miserable "shanty," the center of a small clearing, in what had originally been a "black jack thicket," whence the only sound that proceeds is the discordant music of a broken winded fiddle, from the troubled bowels of which the occupant is laboriously extorting the monotonous tune known as "The Arkansaw," or "Rackensack Traveller."

Our traveller rides up to within a few feet of the door, which was once the bed frame of a cart body, now covered with bear skins, and hung upon two big wooden hinges.

After much shouting, the inmate appears, fiddle in hand, and evidently wrathly at being interrupted in the exercise of his art.—The following colloquy ensues, the indefatigable fiddle still playing the first strain of "The Arkansaw Traveller," which, in fact, he continues at sudden intervals, until the dialogue as will be seen, is brought to a sudden conclusion. If this be not seeking lodgings under difficulties, we should like to know what might be legitimately so considered:

Traveller—"Friend, can I obtain accommodations for the night with you?"

Arkansas Artist—"No, sir, 'nary' 'commodation."

Traveller—"My dear sir, I have travelled over thirty miles to-day, and neither myself nor my horse have had a mouthful to eat: why can't you accommodate me for the night?"

Arkansas Artist—"Jes' case it can't be did. We plum out of anything to eat in the house: Bill's gone to mill with the last tubbin' of corn on these premises, and it'll be nigh onto the shank of to-morrow evening, afore he cums unless such uncommon happens."

Traveller—"You surely have something that I can feed my horse; a few potatoes would be better than no food."

Arkansas Artist—"Stranger, our catin' roots gin out about a week ago; so your chance is slim thar."

Traveller—"But, my friend, I must remain with you, any way. I can't go any further, whether I obtain anything to eat or not. You certainly will, allow me the shelter of your roof?"

Arkansas Artist—"At can't be did old hoss. You see, we've got only one dried hide on the premises, and me and the ole woman allus occupies that; so whar's your chance?"

Traveller—"Allow me to hitch my horse to that persimmon tree, and with my saddle and blanket I'll make a bed in the fence corner."

Arkansas Artist—"Hitch your horse to that 'simmon tree? In a horn. Why, you must be a nat'ral fool, stranger! Don't you see the 'simmon tree in the F'd of the year? If your hoss is so tarna hungry as you say he is, he'd girale in a high up as he could reach store mornin'.

Hitch your hoss to that tree! I 'spect not; no, no, stranger, you can't come 'nary such a dodge as that."

Our traveller, seeing that he had an original to deal with, and being himself an amateur performer upon the instrument to which the settle was so ardently attached, thought he would change his tactics, and drew his determined not-to-be "host" out a little before informing him of the fact that he, too, would once being known, he rightly conjectured would be a passport to his better graces.

Traveller—"Well, friend, if I can't stay, how far is it to the next house?"

Arkansas Artist—"Ten miles; and you'll think they're mighty long ones, too. 'fore you git thar. I came nigh onto forgettin' to tell you the big creek is up; the bridge is carried off; there's nary yearly chance to ford it; and if yer bound to cross it, yer'll have to go about seven miles up stream, to old Dave Lody's puncheon bridge, through one of the darndest bamboo swamps you ever see. I reckon the bridge is standin' yet; twas yesterday mornin'; though one end had started down stream about fifteen feet, or sich a matter."

Traveller—"Friend, you communicate, and if its no offense, I'd like to know what you do for a living here?"

Arkansas Artist—"No offense on earth, stranger. We keep a grocery."

Traveller—"A grocery! Where, in the name of all that is mercantile, do your customers come from? Your nearest neighbor is ten miles distant?"

Arkansas Artist—"The fact is, me and the old woman is the best customers yet; but we 'spect these diggins will improve and in course business will improve too. However, we do suthin now, even. Me and the old woman took the cart 'other day, went to town; we bort a bar'l of whiskey; and arter we come home and 'gin to count the balance on hand, we found thar wa'n't but jist one solitary pickaune left, an as the old woman allus carries the puss, in course she had it. Well, I sot the bar'l agin one side of the room, and shortly arter, the old woman sez; 'Spoken you tap your ead of the bar'l,' and I did; and she bought a drink, and paid me the picayune. Pretty soon, I begun to get dry, and sez I; 'Ole woman, spoken you tap your end of the bar'l?'—she did; and then she sals me a drink; and the way that picayune travelled back'rl and for'ards over the bung of that bar'l is caution to them as loves 'red eye.' But, stranger, losses is apt to come in ever business; and me and the old woman has lost some in the grocery line; and I'll tell you how 'twas. That Boy bill, our oldest son, he see how the flicker was goin', and he did'n't have nary red to jine in the retail business; so one nite he crawls under the house, and taps the bar'l atwixt the cracks in the puncheon floor, and I rally believe he's got more than me or the ole woman either; the good for nothin' vagabond, to come the giraff over his nat'ral born parents; it's enuf to make a man sour again all creation; that boy'll be the ruination of us yet. He takes to trickery jist as nat'ral as a hungry 'possum takes to a henroost. Now, stranger, what you 'arth am I to do? He beats me and the ole woman entirely."

Traveller—"It would be difficult to advise in regard to your son, as I have no family of my own. You say it's ten miles to the next house; the big creek is up; the bridge is carried away; no possibility of fording it, and seven miles through a swatop to the only bridge in the vicinity! This is rather a gloomy prospect, particularly as the sun is just down; still, my curiosity is excited, and as you had been playing only one part of the 'Arkansas Traveller' ever since my arrival would like to know, before I leave, why you don't play the tune through."

Arkansas Artist—"For one of the best reasons on yearth, old boss—I can't do it. I haint larnt the turn of that tune, and drat me if I believe I ever shall!"

Traveller—"Give me your instrument, and I'll see if I can't play the turn for you."

Arkansas Artist—"Look o' here, my friend, do you play the turn of that tune?"

Traveller—"I believe I can."

Arkansas Artist—"Lile, lile, old boss we'll find a place for you in the cabin shure. Old woman! old woman! (a halloo within the shanty was the first indication the traveller had of any other human being on the premises.) the stranger plays the turns of the 'Rackensack Traveller.' My friend, hitch your hoss to the 'Simmon tree or any where else you please. B'll be here soon, and he'll take keer of him."

Old woman, you call Sal and Nance up from the spring; tell Nance to go to the spring house, and cut off a good large piece of barstake, to brile for the stranger a supper; tell Sal to knock over a chicken or two, and get out some flour, and have some flour doins and chickens for the stranger. (Bill just heaves in sight, twenty-four hours earlier than was expected a half an hour before.) Bill! O Bill! there's a stranger here, and he plays the turn of the Rackensack Traveller. Go to the corn crib and get a big punkin and bring it to the house, so the stranger can hev suthing to sit on and skin a 'ta'er long with me and the ole woman while the gals is gettin' supper; and, Bill, take the hoss and give him plenty of corn; no nubbins, Bill; then rub him down well, and when you come to the house, bring up a dried hide and a bar skin, for the stranger to sleep on; and then, Bill, I reckon he'll play the turn of the Rackensack Traveller for us."—[Knock erbocker.]

Female Martyrs

—Young gentlemen (or rather young simpletons) of the class who make late evening calls, will please study the following letter from a lady who signs herself a "Martyr to Late Hours:"

"Dear gentlemen," between the ages of "eighteen and forty five," listen to a few words: When you make a social call of an evening, on a young lady, go away at a reasonable hour. Say you come at eight o'clock most fascinating of you in conversation can, or rather ought to, use his charms. Two hours, indeed, can be very pleasantly spent with music, chess, or other games, to lend variety; but kind sirs, by no means stay longer. Make short calls and often. A girl, that is, a sensible, true-hearted girl, will enjoy it better, and really value your acquaintance more.

Just conceive the agony of a girl who well knowing the feeling of father and mother on the subject, hears the door toll ten, and yet must set on the edge of her chair in mortal terror lest papa should, put his oft repeated threat into execution—that of coming down and asking the young gentleman to break fast.

Meeting of the Republican State Committee of North Carolina.

The members of the Republican State Committee, appointed by the Hon. A. H. Jones, President of the March Convention, are requested to meet in Raleigh on Wednesday the 5th day of June. A full meeting is very desirable, as the Committee will have important business before it.

As the person first named on the Committee, I have deemed it my duty to issue this call.

W. W. HOLDEN.

May 22, 1867.

 The Republican papers of the State will please copy.

The Issue.

The Republican Party and go in the Union, or the Rebel Party and stay out. Which will you support?

We have noticed in the Standard of the 23d inst., a call for the assembling of the Republican State Committee in Raleigh, on the 5th of June next. We have noticed a few remarks in the Union Register in reference to the same, from which it seems, that the object of the committee will be to call a grand convention of every county in the State, represented by true Republicans to confer and consult upon things necessary to be done, to insure the reorganization of the State under the existing laws, &c.

This is well timed and it is to be hoped that no stone will be left unturned necessary to insure the success of the Republican party of the State.

Although many of the intelligent men of our State, who were once considered Union men, have from some cause or other become fully and completely identified with the original SECESSION PARTY, still we have good and sufficient reasons to believe, that there is ability enough, and honesty enough, and firmness enough belonging to the Republican party of our State, from the justice of our cause to over-ride ALL BARRIERS and replace us, with equal rights, side by side with our sister States under the Republican Government established by our ancestors.

Bickerings and heartburnings among friends should be avoided, they must be avoided.

No sane man can assign a good reason for making an ENEMY of a FRIEND. Wise men hold fast to their friends; good men appreciate their friends: a wise and prudent course, on a just cause, will MAKE friends hence, we should grow stronger, not get weaker. There is no better evidence of UNIVERSE COURTESY, than to see a party grow weaker and weaker.

We have a powerful foe to contend with, as a party organization, more powerful now than when SECESSION first appeared. THEN, the Secession party was headed almost ENTIRELY by the OLD Democrats, such as Ellis, Avery, Venable and others, but now their ranks are increased by an addition from the OLD Union ranks, such as the Vances, the Worthens, the Grahams and a host of others, such a commingling six years ago would have been pronounced insanity. But so it is, and the Republicans have this day, to contend against an enemy twice as powerful as the Union men had to contend with in the beginning of of Secession. The same thing has taken place among our neighbors, for instance, Ex-Gov. Perry, of South Carolina, who was a true Union man originally, seems to have willfully fallen into their ranks and has advised the voting down a convention, such OUTSIDE influence got us into the difficulty at first, and is it possible that our people will listen to anything of the kind from the same quarter again. We hope never.

The Government of the United States is composed of PARTS, the various PARTS necessary to make the whole. The Congress of the United States says that ALL the PARTS must be PURE else the WHOLE might be corrupted and thereby destroyed, hence, certain laws have been enacted to effect their purpose and to keep the NATION from tumbling to ruin.

Suppose the State of North Carolina, AS A STATE, refuses to throw around herself, in the present attempt under the Sherman Bill at reorganization, such safeguards and guarantees as are necessary to ensure an admittance by Congress, by what reason could she expect to enter the Union as an equal with her sister States, done whatever.

If the WHOLE must be pure and unadulterated the PARTS must be so likewise, the GARMENT must have no spot or blemish on it.

The TRUE Union men of the State (now Republican) have lost much by being in BAD company, they have certainly had sufficient experience to profit by it and now is a most opportune time to lift the wheat from the chaff. Go to work, be not ashamed to let it be known who you were and who you are, for I tell you it is your only SALVATION in future.

The GREATER efforts the REBELS make to screen THEMSELVES, the easier it will be to IDENTIFY THEM and the easier it will be for the Republicans to enter the harbor of safety.

Beware of wolves in sheep's clothing. Trust no man, (at least an officer) whose record is not unblemished, and whose honesty, ability, and firmness, is not equal to the task imposed upon him and who cannot INCREASE instead of DECREASE your PARTY strength.

Let us take care of OURSELVES FIRST, then, it will be time enough to take care of our ENEMIES. If we are to be saved, we must depend upon our own exertions, and never, no never, suffer ourselves to be controlled by the demons who have shot men and hung women for opinion sake. Where is the man or woman who, after a moments reflection could consent to be controlled by such beings?

If there ever was a people upon the face of the earth that deserved praise it is the Union men and women of the Rebel States, they have suffered everything UNTO DEATH for opinion sake and now if we don't rise up in our might and place in power the true and pure men to the National Government we will disgrace the dead, disgrace the living and disgrace all generations which may come after us.

Beware of Rebels who seeking office, or inducing men whom they can control to seek office, place confidence in your friends, the PURE LOYAL men of the country and all will be well.

Judge Marvin, of Florida, late provisional Governor, and the present Senator elect is of the opinion that the majority of the old citizens of the South would prefer always to live under military rule, and without representation in Congress, rather than to come back into the Union with the disabilities imposed and with universal suffrage; and he thinks the peace of society there is better preserved by authority of military commanders than it every will be by the civil authorities.

To the Republicans of the Union.

The National Union Committee appeals to the Republicans of every State for their assistance and co-operation in this auspicious crisis of our country.

We deem it of the highest importance that the Republicans of each State should immediately reorganize for the remaining elections of 1867, preparatory to the coming Presidential contest. Especially should this organization be immediately effected in those States which have never before recognized as the only just basis of government the equal and inalienable rights of man. Not a day should be lost in forming and strengthening within those States a public sentiment in consonance with the principles which underlie the great political organization to which we belong.

To this end, we desire to prosecute a systematic and thorough canvass of the Southern States by the most efficient speakers of both races. We would second their efforts by a distribution of documents, enforcing the principles, policy and aims of the Republican party. We would call, in every locality where it is possible, meetings for discussion, where those who are with us in principle may learn to act with unity and energy. These measures are required to bring out the vote of that large body of Republican Unionists who now render the Southern States a battle-field of principle. It is the pressing need of the hour that bold, judicious and able men, thoroughly imbued with our creed, should there explain our principles, establish our faithfulness to them, and prove that national greatness and human freedom depend upon the permanent triumph of our cause.

Beyond this, it is most essential that we should now establish in those States free thought, free speech, and a free press. Every part of this Republic must be open to the discussion of principles and measures. This must be sustained, as a cardinal point in our creed, at any and every hazard. Efforts to intimidate the humble and ignorant voter on the part of the southern planter must be met with the spirit of freedom, and the determination which a just cause sanctions.

In time past, the Republican party has struggled against the unjust reproach of being sectional in its aims and character, though its purposes and its means of effecting them were such as the fathers of the Republic approved. It was accused of being governed by selfish motives, and of desiring to aggrandize the North at the expense of the South. Its adversaries, having the power to silence and crush all opposition, denied all discussions, and overawed even freedom of thought in fifteen States of the Union. It is, therefore, now an imperative duty, which we owe to our party and to ourselves, to embrace the first opportunity of truly representing to those States how consistently we have contended for the interests, welfare and freedom of the whole Union.

The overthrow of slavery and the rebellion, and the enfranchisement of the freedmen, rendering this overthrow secure and final, have happily vindicated our course and organization; but it is necessary to stamp the conviction of our loyalty and fidelity to the right, irrespective of section or race, upon the reconstructed States. For the first time in many years the enthusiastic followers of our flag and confessions of our faith are there taking part in the popular gatherings, and in many of the southern States we have reason to believe that they form a decided majority. They are, however, without organization, and lack the cohesion and discipline necessary to success. Three-fourths of the Republicans have never voted, and have no practical knowledge of the means whereby the popular will is expressed. With many of them the habit is fixed of rendering implicit obedience to able and dexterous politicians who are implacably hostile to our principles and determined on the prostration of our cause.

Our immediate action is therefore imperative. We cannot delay without imperiling all for which so much has been sacrificed in the past. Confident in our strength in the North, the West, and the Pacific States, we must not forget we have a great duty to perform towards the loyal and true men of the South.

Republicans, our appeal is to you, to carry on and sustain the work which a few loyal and true men have so nobly begun. We cannot ask speakers, in addition to giving their time and talents for months to this labor, to detract their own necessary expenses. We cannot print and distribute documents of the character required without a heavy outlay. We have no means or reliance except upon the generous spirit of that great party which holds the claims of humanity and freedom above all price. The patronage of the Government, brought into power by the statesmanship, the courage, and loyalty of that party, will not aid us in this good work.

We must, therefore, appeal directly and personally to you. If you are rich, give generously. If poor, send us whatever you can afford. The generous purpose and the noble aim sanctify the humblest efforts. At all events, act promptly and let us feel that the sympathy of the Republican party is with us in our purpose of making this great land the home of true Republican principles, where distinctions of race and color are unknown, and where liberty, virtue, and intelligence form the enduring basis of our greatness and prosperity.

POETRY.

The Drunkard's Soliloquy.

Ah! well do I remember, when but a little
I was my mother's heart's delight, my father's greatest joy;
My sisters loved me tenderly, and I, with
open brow,
Could face the world, in innocence—but,
can I do it now?

Ah! well do I remember, as youth came on apace,
A little baby, from our flock, was clasped
in death's embrace;
I looked upon its pallid face, and felt its chilly brow,
And felt that we would meet in heaven—
Oh! can I hope it now?

And yes, there was another form—so beautiful and true—
As lovely as the virgin rose all bathed in early dew;
But like the flower she drooped and died,
[Oh! Death, to thee I bow!]
Forsaken, outcast, drunkard I—none careth
for me now.

How many friends have urged me oft to quit the sparkling cup,
Nor let the demons tempt me on, for death
was in the sup;
And I would think to heed them then, but,
oh! the cursed bowl!

I quailed again—they left, and now none
careth for my soul.
The world may loathe me, as it may, for I remember when I claimed the place, by birth my own, and stood with other men;
But now, these trembling, quivering limbs,
and frenzied burning brain,
Proclaim my birthright sold, and none
careth for my pain.

And when I've died the drunkard's death,
and filled a drunkard's grave,
No flower to bloom above my dust, no willow bow to wave,
No whispered memories of love, but winds,
in requiems there, Bemoan the lost, to hope and heaven—and
and none to shed a tear.

AN INTELLIGENT HON.—The Washington (Ga) Gazette has the following: Dabury, March 28.—Mr Editor. I warrant that I have got the most intelligent and peculiar fowl either in Wilkes or Lincoln counties. She is a quite a large size hen between the common dunhill fowl and the Shanghai. My little daughter can take the hen upon her knees and pat her on the back and say "Sing, Betsy," (for that is her name,
and she will begin to sing as requested.
She will then say, "Sing loud, Betsy,
and she will then sing at the very top of her voice, which is very loud, for she has an excellent pair of lungs. She will say, "Sing soft, Betsy," and she will change from the loud tone to a very soft one. And to cap the climax in the way of obeying and pleasing the children, my little niece put Betsy in a chair the other day, and began to pat
her on the back, saying at the same time, "lay me an egg, Betsy." Betsy sang a very short, soft song, and then stood up in the chair, and to the great delight of the children, there lay in the chair an egg. She will follow my wife
all over the house, yard, and garden,
just like a pet dog, and will sing or no
as she is directed to do.

A YOUNG LADY returning to her country home after a sojourn in the City was hardly recognised by her friends.
In place of a coarse rustic face she had a soft rosy complexion of almost marble smoothness and instead of twenty-three she really appeared but eighteen. Upon inquiry as to the causes of so great a change she plainly told them that she used the CIRCASSIAN BALM, and considered it an invaluable acquisition to any Lady's toilet. By its use any Lady or Gentleman can improve their personal appearance an hundred fold. It is simple in its combination, as Nature herself is simple yet unsurpassed in its efficacy in drawing impurities from, also healing cleansing and beautifying the skin and complexion. By its direct action on the cuticle it draws from it all its impurities kindly healing the same and leaving the surface as Nature intended
it should be, clear soft smooth and beautiful.

Reparator Capilli

Throw away your false fraizees, your switches, your wig—
Destructive of comfort and not worth a fig;
Come aged, come youthful come ugly and fair,
And rejoice in your own luxuriant hair.

REPARATOR CAPILLI

For restoring hair upon bald heads (from what ever cause it may have fallen out) and forcing a growth of hair upon the face, it has no equal. It will force the beard to grow upon the smoothest face in from five to eight weeks, or hair upon bald heads in from two to three months. A few ignorant practitioners have assented that there is nothing that will force or hasten the growth of the hair or beard, witnesses (from their own experience) can bear witness. But many will say how are we to distinguish the genuine from the spurious? It certainly is difficult as nine-tenths of the digerent Preparations advertised for the hair and beard are entirely worthless, and you may have already thrown away large amounts in their purchase.
To such we would say, try the Reparator Capilli; it will cost you nothing unless it truly comes up to our representations. If your Druggist does not keep it, send us one dollar and we will forward it, postpaid, together with a receipt for the money, which will be returned you on application providing entire satisfaction is not given. Address,
